Grain Industry Association of Western Australia (GIWA) Inc.

GIWA's purpose is to grow the value and profitability of the Western Australian grain industry

GIWA represents the interests of its members, from researchers to growers to input suppliers and service providers, processors and the trade. GIWA grows the value and profitability of the Western Australian (WA) grains industry by:

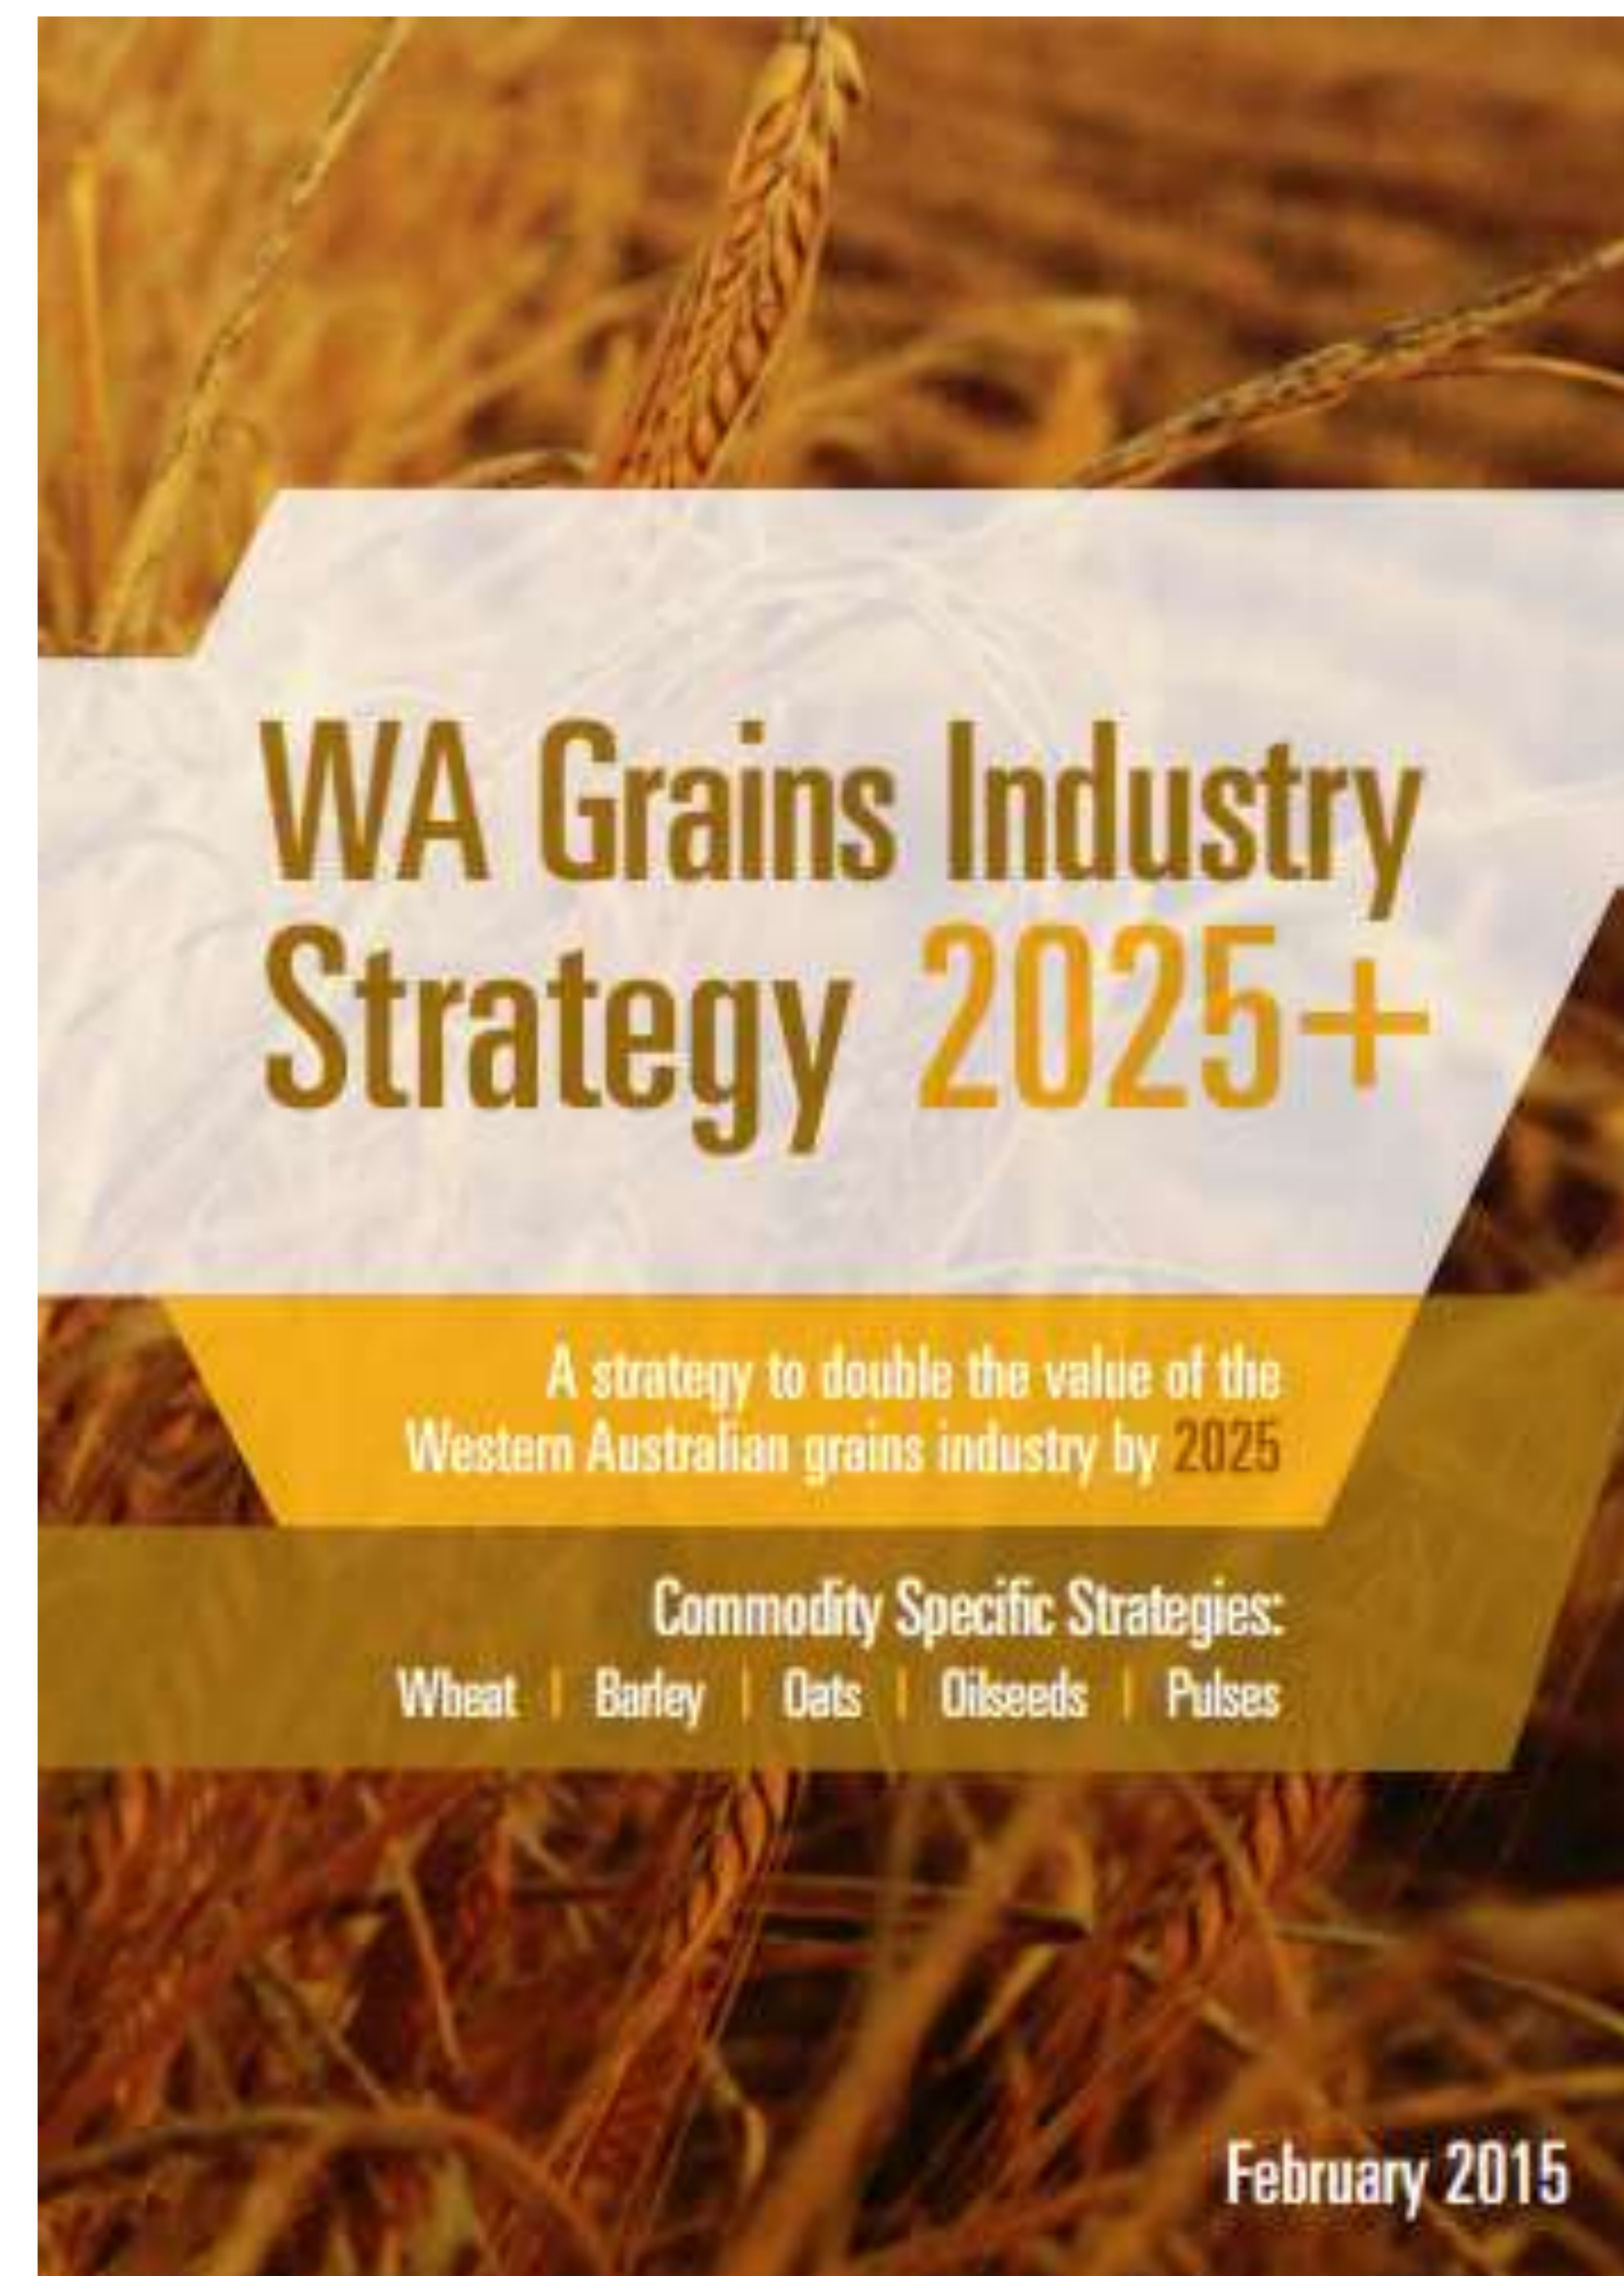

- Leadership and industry self-regulation, including the setting of standards and grain variety rationalisation
- Precompetitive industry communication and information exchange through its seven Councils
- Providing policy and project solutions for grain value chain issues
- Providing administrative services for a variety of projects

Whole of supply chain cooperation

GIWA Oat Council

The GIWA Oat Council represents the WA oat industry in all areas including plant breeding, agronomic development, production, handling and processing of oat varieties in order to promote and safeguard the industry long term interests.

Western Australia is a major international exporter of high quality food-grade milling oats and processed oat products.
